It's been two weeks since, I said good bye and celebrated my uncle's life. There hasn't been a day since, that I haven't thought of him in some way. From his boisterous laugh and big smile, to his colorful story telling, or his keen business sense advice. I seem to encounter something every day that sparks some memory of him. Most of them make me smile or laugh, but some sadden me. like when I need advice on a business situation, and I am not able to talk to him to get that "C.W. School Of Business" advise, that only he could come up with. But as long as I think of him, and remembers what he taught me, a little piece of his spirit lives within me, which makes me a better man. Thank you, Uncle Bubby for being part of my life.

I too knew Bubby way back in time at Madisonville. Such a small town, so few in our age group. The memories all come flooding back. He was a cut-up character then and I'm glad to hear that his spirit remained ever so. I remember that he would often help out his Dad at their gas station on Main Street. He left school for the Navy at such a young age. It's nice to know that he touched so many people's lives in such a positive way. My condolences to all his family. Pamela Chatellier Hebert

Our thoughts and prayers are with you and your family. My father and I met CW when he was renovating houses. CW was always laughing and smiling. CW had bought a house in New Orleans to renovate and the past owner had some form of rituals with chickens in the back shed. He gave us a good laugh that day when he told us how fast his workers ran out yard and would not step foot onto the property until the property was completely cleared of the ritual debris. Rest in peace CW.
