We feel your pain as members of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital family. We lost our son in December 2007 before your journey there had begun. We feel our son's presence among us every day and know that you will have those feelings too. Losing a child is the most difficult cross one could bear. May God bless your family all the days of your lives.

You do not know me but I have been praying for Elizabeth. Sadly she did not win her battle, but won the right to be one of God's angels. You all have been strong throughout this and I admire your courage and strength. I have followed your website and have been inspired by your story. I am a big fan of St. Jude Research Hospital and a donor and I pray for their success rate each and every day. My heart is heavy this morning. I pray that the Holy Spirit is with your family through these trying times. I was a friend of Kathy's parents (neighbor) Mr. & Mrs. Senac. I send her my sympathy also.

Michelle, I will always remember seeing you guys from a distance at Disney and seeing Elizabeth smiling at everybody around her at the stunt show. That is how I picture her. The days ahead will be hard, I lost a son at birth, Ross, over nine years ago and I still think of him daily. He is buried at Pinecrest and I will visit with Elizabeth when I visit him. I know they are looking down at us and wishing we were not sad. We will unite with them again someday, but until then, enjoy the rest of your family. That's what Elizabeth would want. Call if you would like to talk. Love, The Paille Family- John, Tara, Alex, Luke & Catherine

Dear Michelle, D.J. and boys: Your precious little Angel has not died.....her spirit lives on not only in your hearts and lives, but in all of our hearts and lives. There are so many precious promises in God's word about the sufferings that we go through here on earth, and how they can't compare to the glory that will be for an eternity in Heaven. Just to know your sweet baby is there now, she has a new heavenly body, and the glory that she's experiencing right now.....no words can describe! I pray that you will take hold of God's promises and that HE will give you a little glimpse of the Glory and Splendor that is Elizabeth's right now! One day we will all be reunited again for ever and ever with our Savior, and with precious Elizabeth.....may those promises sustain you! God Bless and Keep all of you. I will be thinking of all of you and praying for you, especially on Saturday. Love & Prayers, Donna Meketarian Aliso Viejo, Ca. I'm Martha and Brenda's childhood friend. D.J.
