Joey, I've been thinking about you a lot lately. Like mom mentioned in her comment, we had a lot of fun (what she and Maw Maw called "mischief"). I wouldn't trade a second of it. We did a lot of life together growing up. From sailing on "Interlude and Chaos", to sneaking Maw-Maw's big ole Chrysler out at 2 AM, to the getting 'Monsooned' at Port o Call in the French Quarter, to installing car stereos (I never would ask you where they came from), to late-night walks to the "Corner Pak" because you needed cigarettes (I never understood how you did that barefooted), to driving to Mandeville High in your little blue truck with NO heat in the freezing cold and having to roll down the window because there was so much smoke, to selling each other cars (I still wish I hadn't sold you my MGB), to random late night fishing trips from Mandeville to Bay St. Louis (thanks for laughing at me when I fell off the bridge using the cast net), to swimming out to the little shack off the lakefront, to sharing girlfriends (not in that way, lol!), to swimming across Interstate Pond with Frank (I nearly drowned), to selling each other stereo equipment (once again, I never asked where it came from, and yes, I still have that turntable and your records), and so so so much more. I still see your smile and hear your laugh. I'm just so sorry that we lost touch over the years. I had no idea that you'd even passed until a while back when I was trying to find you and I called Peggy. Dang. I miss you. I wrote a song for you today. It was cathartic and somewhat healing. I love you man. I'm forever grateful to have grown up together and done so much life together. We didn't take pictures back then, but I've attached a photo from one of our birthday dinners at Rips on the Lake. Until We Meet Again, - Danny Rogers

Hey Joey, I'm so glad Danny and I lived close to you and your maw maw when you were younger. I treasure my memories of you both growing and how you two brought so much joy, laughter and a little mischief along the way into my life. I wouldn't trade my memories for anything in this world. Thank you for letting us be a part of yours. Danny and I will miss you dearly. I'm not good with good byes so I'll tell you what a friend told me "I'll see you in the morning". With love to you and maw maw, Ronda & Danny

Joey was the keeper of the Fineran Stories, humorist, lover of life. He could fix anything, making you laugh while he did it. What an honor to be in his life and see him blossom these past two years with the birth of his beautiful Maggie Girl on Jan 5 2010! He grew into the most loving father, he adored soul mate Michelle and the home they created together. We will keep Joey's memory alive watching Maggie grow up over the years. He left us a priceless legacy. Thank you Joe!

I never saw him without a smile on his face and a warm and sincere hug to offer. I admired he and Michelle for hanging together over the years when most couples don't. It's a terrible loss for so many. My deepest condolences to all who will miss his presence in their lives. A sweet man, gone too young.
