My dear sister-in-law; you've been my friend, my advisor for as long as I can recall. We weep selfish tears because without you nothing will be the same. But we know in our hearts, you would have us be strong, be happy and live as good Christians. You are our role model. And I know that even now, you are not idle. Our Almighty Father's newest and brightest angel is doing what she does best: smiling, visiting and mingling, bringing a multitude of souls together in love. Rest in peace, dearest Jessie . . . until the day we are all together again as a family. We love you.
