Annette, I am so sorry to hear about Jason. You and your family have had some very rough times since Katrina. But hopefully your great memories will help you through this tough time. Jason introduced himself to Honey and I at College Inn one night after Katrina {can't believe he recognized us} but was just so personable. Had his son with him too. And he was reminiscing about my Mother and how he used to go visit Rosemary and really enjoyed her. It was nice to hear and that he shared it with us. And reading his guest book, I can see how well liked he was. I hope you can find the strength somehow to get through this tragedy. I will be thinking of you and Eva.
