Leslie Lauck lit a candle in honor of Lesa.

I just now came across this and want you to know Richie how sorry I am. I cannot imagine losing my mom at such a young age. She was a very beautiful woman and will be taking care of you and your wonderful family from her new home.

The lesson that I have learned from Lesa Kabrich, both professionally and personally as a wiser woman and counselor than I, is simple: do not let fear keep you from taking the road less traveled by, no matter how rocky and curvy it may seem. The Road Not Taken by Robert Frost (first and last stanzas) Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, And sorry I could not travel both And be one traveler, long I stood And looked down one as far as I could To where it bent in the undergrowth; I shall be telling this with a sigh Somewhere ages and ages hence: Two roads diverged in a wood, and I— I took the one less traveled by, And that has made all the difference. Lesa bravely took her own road in life and all of the roads that have intersected with hers are better roads because of it. I miss you, my sweet friend. ~Ashley Wall

Best friends forever and eternity....a piece of Lesa will always live on in my heart. She was such a beautiful, fun and caring person who could always make you laugh and know the world was another day of adventure. My heart aches for Lesa and her precious family in our loss - but know I am a better person for knowing her and having her as a best friend. We have traveled many paths together over the past 20 years, and although I know she will continue this one without me, we will meet again in heaven.

Richie and Lee...I am so very sorry to hear about your wonderful Mom. I have so many memories of all of us taking day trips or just playing in the backyard. You boys were the most important people in her life. I am so lucky to have had her in my life. We all missed all of you when you moved from Shafter but oh the places you all went. We all went there through you all. I know it will be hard without her but just know that she is only a memory away and she made so many. I am with you through this, even if I'm far away. Blessings, Elida
