Sean and family, you are in my thoughts and prayers. Christian was my first boyfriend at age 12 and charmed me with his wit and height (which he accuses me of being the only thing I liked him for) even then. And then 30 years later our paths brought us together again. He touched my life in a special way and there will forever be a hole left from my tall CMT.

Jack Thompson and Family: We just wanted you to know we are very sorry to hear about Christian. This is truly sad news. For some moments in life there are no words to express our thoughts. We have always impressed with Jack (his dad) and his many talents, and we are honored to know Jack personally. We did not have the honor of meeting Christian, but we knew Christian through his father, Jack. Jack was always bragging on Christians in our many great conversations (smart man). . Our prayers are with you and your family. With caring thoughts Don (Butch) & Susan Jordan

Jack, Sean and the rest of Christian's extended family, My sincere condolences to all of you on the loss of a son, brother, father and friend. Growing up just a few houses down on Barbara Place, I remember fondly getting to know Christian almost immediately after we moved to Mandeville in the early 1980s. Christian and I played on the same basketball teams from MJHS to MHS, traveled every year in Jack's car from NOLA to ATL (in mid summer with no air conditioning!!) to the GA Tech basketball camp. At that time, Christian had the gift of height and size over Sean, which used to drive Sean crazy. Christian was witty, smart, engaging and funny. His light was extinguished far too soon, and I hope he's up in heaven playing guitar and entertaining anyone near him. Rest in peace King. Mike Holland

Sean, Sending prayers to you and your family at this sad time. While I did not know Christian personally I knew "of" him. Larger than life personality. My sincerest condolences to you, your family and all of Christian's friends.

As sad as this is and as tears come down my face, I got to the scuba/snorkeling picture and laughed out loud. Thank you for putting that one in. Somehow, Christian has always made me laugh...and argue. It is beyond sad that he is gone.

This is one of the hardest things I have ever had to watch. As I sit here, tears streaming down my face, trying in vain to put into words just how this tribute makes me feel. Painful yes, but also comforting. The problem when you lose someone like Christian, all of a sudden, there is no closure. I have been walking into walls since I heard about his passing. But I will say this, he would certainly not want us to feel the way we feel about losing him. He was just that way, he's the guy MOST people called when something like this happens, the world got a little colder, a little more hostile now that he is gone. He was the kind of guy you meet once in a lifetime. I am trying to take something away from this, but all I can come up with is, there is a whole in my heart and time, though it will never heal this, will however, make it a tiny bit easier. I wish he were here, he'd throw his arm around my shoulder and say "c'mon tralarge, (short for Extra Large) you're gonna be fine, you'll see. Now drink this! I'm going to stop here as the lump in my throat is starting to really hurt. Till we meet again brother, keep on cold for me. I love you!

I love the video memorial....it brought back SO many memories of times when we didnt have a care and it seems everyone was always smiling in our big group of friends....I will always remember Christian for his hilarious dry sarcastic humor and snicker, that always made us laugh. He was always such a fun and nice guy--- which seems to be the same feeling of everyone I know that knew Christian. RIP my friend
