Devin Christopher Barnes

DEC 31, 1984 - MAY 12, 2019

Devin Christopher Barnes died on Sunday, May 12, 2019, in Covington, La. He was born on December 31, 1984, in Metairie, La., to his mother Theresa Cecile Barnes.

Devin was the loving father of Leah Ernst. He is also survived by his grandmothers, his “GG” Gail Barnes and Velma “Maw-Maw Red” Gutierrez; his parent George Gregory Gross, stepmother Jolie Gross, and siblings Bella and Brock Gross; his “Parran” Dennis Carroll Grabert, aunt Laurie Billiot, cousins Dennis Grabert Jr., Paul Grabert, niece Amari Grabert. Other survivors include the mother of his daughter, Lauren Ernst, as well as countless relatives and friends.

Devin was a city boy with a country heart because while he adopted a love of hip-hop music and a sharp style of dress, he still enjoyed horses, the beach, and visiting Lake Pontchartrain.

His loved ones called Devin a “true friend.” His charm could be seen in his loving kindness and courteousness to strangers. Devin’s family and friends will miss his smile. His laugh. His “Yeah” dance in response to being offered soul food. The way he would, quite literally, stop and smell the flowers. His warm hugs that made one “feel like the most important person ever.” His creativity and love of writing music.

“Devin’s greatest love is his daughter Leah,” said his mother Theresa “Tessie” Barnes. In the short time they had together, he found his best moments in teaching her to ride a bike, skateboard, and just “being with her.”

Growing up, he loved spending time with “his Crocker,” his late grandfather, Edward Cecil Barnes, on the family farm Holly Ridge, in Folsom, La.

May Devin now rest in the peace he sought.

Devin was an incredible, caring, intelligent, hilarious human being and the best friend someone could ask for. I will never forget how kind he was to me, even in a difficult time in my life. He was not judgmental, always thinking about other people and bringing light into people's lives.
