When we were looking at pictures of Jimmy , I saw a happy boy and young man. Silly and playful also soulful and sensitive. I was struck by all the beautiful work he did in your home. There was much thought and professional skill. There was hard work and not an inch was not touched by his loving hands.

You were more than just a step-father to me. You stepped in to raise two girls who weren't even your own, yet you treated us as if we were. Absolutely no matter what, you were ALWAYS there for us. You were a man who always attempted to make light of bad situations, was constantly making corny jokes, and never let me feel like I wasn't loved. I would never want anyone else to take the place that you have in my heart which will be reserved for you in all eternity. You are at peace now, watching down on all of us with Andy and Grandma by your side. I love you and I hope someday, somehow we will meet again.

RIP Jimmy. Sad to hear. I'll remember all the baseball games, the time we played homerun derby in your backyard. Prayers for the LaPlante's and family.
