Well, I don't even know where to begin. Lil Lloyd was a part of my life for as long as I can remember. We went through all of elementary and middle school together. He even participated in Camp Fire with us. And because our moms were such great friends, we still were a part of each other's lives even after high school. To some he may have come across as unapproachable but for those that knew him knew that was the furthest thing from who he was. He was kind hearted and never entered a room without a kiss and a hug hello to everyone. I can remember spending nights at aunt Phylis and uncle Lloyd's house and watching scary movies and lil Lloyd doing things to scare us even more. Guess he didn't think Freddie Krueger or Michael Meyers did the job well enough. We are going to miss him at the barbque parties, pool parties and definitely at the Christmas parties. But I'm sure that aunt Phylis will always have something special in his memory at every family event as she is so good at doing. He will be missed but never ever forgotten. I love you aunt Phylis, uncle Lloyd, Debbie, and Candy and all the others too. You're at peace now Bubba. Please watch over us.
