Jack was a just a cool person. I remember one evening I had my family over for dinner and Jack and Johnny happen to be in town so naturally they were there also...after dinner, dad and Jack were having a few beverages. They were so relaxed and talking just like old friends. It was summertime so they were outside in the backyard just chilled out...I remember just standing to the side, soaking up that feeling of everything was right in my world...I always remembered that evening...it was one of my favorite with him...
