“ Dad had lots of wisdom and shared it with his four sons .

- 1) The word “Can’t” is the lazy man’s way of saying “I don’t want to” . Every problem has a solution as long as you set your mind to solving it.
Your mother and I gave you a good brain; now use it.
- 2) A credit card is a wonderful thing to possess,
But remember, if you do not have the money in your bank account , you cannot afford it.
- 3) if ever you find yourself in times of trouble,
Call your brothers, they love you.
- 4) if a man gives you a dollar bill, give him a dollar bill’s worth ... even if you’re shoveling mule poop in the French Quarter .
- 5) I love you very very much
If our parents weren’t the best on the planet,
They were certainly among them.
They will be missed.

“ Uncle Johnny was my dad’s twin. As offspring of twins, the seven of us Breaux Cousins share a unique bond. We have a higher percentage of DNA in common than other cousins, as evidenced in how much we all look and sound alike. And we always enjoyed the antics of our dads; whether through stories from their childhood or in real time.

I am the oldest cousin, and only girl, so I saw the gentler side of Uncle Johnny. Although gruff and stern with the boys, he always softened with me, calling me “his beautiful niece”. As my godfather, he took as much pride in my accomplishments as did my dad. When I became engaged and subsequently married, he shed as many tears as did my dad.

I was tasked with teaching the Breaux Twins a soft shoe routine to “Me and My Shadow” in 1985. This was for a talent show on their upcoming cruise. Uncle was a non-compliant student, hitting my dad over the head with his cane and knocking off his top hat. Somehow, they managed to pull it together and put on a great performance.

I love you Zeo...rest in peace!

“ It's been a tough 3 years for my brothers and I, mom passed in September of 2015 and from that point we began the long road of taking care of my dad. Three years of being away from my family every other week and weekend caring for dad. Well this morning it ended with my dad passing peacefully into the final phase of his life. He has move up to the heavens along side Christ our Savior. Back with mom and our baby Taylor and all who had gone before for him. I wouldn't trade those three years for nothing. What an experience. Dad was there when I was born and I had the pleasure of being there with him until the end. He was truly a fine father of four boys who grew to be great young men, husbands and fathers. We never wanted or needed anything in life. He taught us all how to become our own person and not to depend on anything nor anybody. I love you pops and will miss you here with us. I know we will meet again when it is my turn to leave this earth. Until then hugs and kisses to mom and Taylor for me.
